

Katelyn Jetelina, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor
Department of Epidemiology
University of Texas Health Science Center

Dr. Katelyn Jetelina is an epidemiologist and Assistant Professor in the Department of Epidemiology at University of Texas Health Science Center, School of Public Health, where her research lab resides and where she teaches. In addition, Dr. Jetelina is the founder and sole author of Your Local Epidemiologist, a viral newsletter that “translates” scientific research and events (like the COVID-19 pandemic) to the community. Her newsletter has reached over 90 million people in the past 18 months and is actively translated into 6 different languages.